

The Vision of School of Worship

School Of Worship has been a vision the Lord put inside my heart in the early part of my life. I didn't realize what it looked like, or sounded like, or even one detail of what it really is suppose to be when I was younger, I just always knew that I love to worship the Lord. I knew that I love to worship God at the highest and best of who I am. I knew that once I understood that worship is who I am not what I do, that I had tapped into a stream into the heart of God that could not be explained in words. It's a pure place; it's a holy place; its a place where your earthly identity, and your heavenly being mesh into one person. It's a place where God becomes so real, so touchable, so available to your being that you never want to leave it. I was just a little girl in the back woods of the hill country of Mississippi when I first discovered my identity of a worshiper. After a few years my hearts desire became all about teaching and training others. It first began with my teaching piano, voice, and guitar at the age of fifteen years old. By the time I was a Senior in High School I had over 60 weekly students, ranging from the ages of five years old to 58 years old. College students from 40 miles away at Mississippi State University would drive down into the country roads of Choctaw County, Mississippi to have a weekly lesson with me. When I look back at it, its truly amazing, how the Lord puts inside of you at a very early age, who you really are, what you are called and created to do and be. I was born a worshiper of the most High God. I will cross over to Heaven or be raptured as a worshiper of the Most High God. Now 62 years later, my hearts desire is to train worshipers to worship God in spirit and in truth. To raise up worshipers with a pure heart, to know the difference between performance and worship. Want to be a part of this? Come to one of our School Of Worship sessions!

---

School Of Worship 2014 sessions

School Of Worship has been a vision the Lord put inside my heart in the early part of my life. I didn't realize what it looked like, or sounded like, or even one detail of what it really is suppose to be when I was younger, I just always knew that I love to worship the Lord. I knew that I love to worship God at the highest and best of who I am. I knew that once I understood that worship is who I am not what I do, that I had tapped into a stream into the heart of God that could not be explained in words. It's a pure place; it's a holy place; its a place where your earthly identity, and your heavenly being mesh into one person. It's a place where God becomes so real, so touchable, so available to your being that you never want to leave it. I was just a little girl in the back woods of the hill country of Mississippi when I first discovered my identity of a worshiper. After a few years my hearts desire became all about teaching and training others.

It first began with my teaching piano, voice, and guitar at the age of fifteen years old. By the time I was a Senior in High School I had over 60 weekly students, ranging from the ages of five years old to 58 years old. College students from 40 miles away at Mississippi State University would drive down into the country roads of Choctaw County, Mississippi to have a weekly lesson with me. When I look back at it, its truly amazing, how the Lord puts inside of you at a very early age, who you really are, what you are called and created to do and be. I was born a worshiper of the most High God. I will cross over to Heaven or be raptured as a worshiper of the Most High God. Now 57 years later, my hearts desire is to train worshipers to worship God in spirit and in truth. To raise up worshippers with a pure heart, to know the difference between performance and worship. Want to be a part of this? Come to one of our School Of Worship sessions in 2015! The first one is scheduled January 12-16, 2015!

---

Life is a Journey . . . don't quit now!

Life is not made up of a list of destinations or achievements even though we have been taught that it is. Life is made up of daily life experiences learning how to keep moving no matter what happens; remembering that Jesus will never leave us nor will He ever forsake us. No matter who lives, or who dies, Jesus is alive forever more and He lives in you. At least, He lives in you if you have surrendered your life to Him, forever. He must be Lord, and King of your every day life. He is not a prayer prayed one time, a long time ago.

No, He is ever present, always with you, always holding up your arms when you can't keep moving. He is your salvation, your healing, your deliverance, your breakthrough, and your victory. He is . . . always and ever present. Not past and not future; at this exact moment, Jesus is ever present with you. So don't give up; don't look back; don't turn around; don't stop moving forward. Jesus is walking every step with you. He is! And when you are hidden inside of Him, you are! You are living, breathing, walking, talking, infomercial for the king of kings and the Lord of lords. Jesus is coming soon. We must prepare the bride . . . we must prepare ourselves to be ready to meet Him face to face. Ask Him to help you; He will. He is no further away from you than your next breath. Breathe His name, even whisper His name and He is there. Life is a journey and it has a destination.

But life, this earth life that is, is not a destination. this earth life is the womb of Heaven. We are here to develop into who we are forever. Who are you right now? Are you the worshiper you were created to be? What if at this next moment, you took your last breath and stood before the Father? Would you be happy with who you have developed into forever? Worship Him. He deserves it.

---

This is a blog post

This is a written blog post . This is a link to a website such as TBN.

---

This is a blog post title

This is a post with a video

F L O A T I N G from Greg Jardin on Vimeo.

---

Today Is Awesome

Today is Awesome because God Is!

---

We Who Worship 2011

Here are some images from our previous events.